Plaintiff JM HOSPITALITY GROUP, LLC (“Plaintiff”), individually and on behalf of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes defined below, bring this class action to recover treble damages, injunctive relief, and any other relief as appropriate, based on violations of the Sherman Act and various state antitrust and consumer protection laws by American Sugar Refining, Inc. (“ASR”), ASR Group International, Inc. (“ASR Group”), Domino Foods, Inc. (“Domino,” together with ASR Group and ASR, “ASR/Domino”), Cargill, Inc. (“Cargill”), Michigan Sugar Company (“Michigan Sugar”), United Sugar Producers & Refiners f/k/a United Sugars Corporation (“United,” together with ASR/Domino, Cargill, and Michigan Sugar, the “Producing Defendants”), Commodity Information, Inc. (“Commodity”), and Richard Wistisen (“Wistisen,” together with Commodity, “Commodity”) (collectively “Defendants”), and allege, upon its personal knowledge as to itself and each of its own actions, and otherwise upon information and belief, including the investigation of counsel, as follows:

I. NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. Since at least January 1, 2019, Defendants and their co-conspirators conspired and combined to fix, raise, maintain, and stabilize prices for Granulated Sugar¹ sold throughout the United States.

2. The Producing Defendants—who are otherwise horizontal competitors—are among the largest producers and sellers of Granulated Sugar in the United States, especially after Defendant United’s acquisition of former competitor Imperial Sugar Company (“Imperial”) in November 2022.

¹ As defined below, “Granulated Sugar” is ordinary, white, table sugar that is made from cane sugar or beet sugar that has undergone a refining process to extract the sucrose and create relatively large, uniform crystals.

3. In furtherance of this conspiracy, among other things, the Producing Defendants unlawfully signaled pricing decisions and exchanged competitively sensitive information about prices, capacity, sales volume, and demand, including through Defendant Commodity. The Producing Defendants were careful to avoid detection of their unlawful agreement. For example, while discussing an information exchange in one email, United's Eric Speece wrote that he would "call" "rather than put in writing." These actions were taken with the intended purpose and effect of increasing Granulated Sugar Prices throughout the United States.

4. As a result of Defendants' combination and conspiracy, Granulated Sugar prices in the United States have been artificially inflated between at least January 1, 2019 and the present ("Class Period"), causing Plaintiff and other commercial, industrial, and institutional indirect purchasers ("Commercial Indirect Purchasers") to suffer overcharges.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. This action arises under Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1), and Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26), as well as the antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection laws of various states. The Sherman Act claim is for injunctive relief, costs of suit, and reasonable attorneys' fees; the various state claims seek to recover injunctive relief, compensatory damages, treble damages, costs of suit, and reasonable attorneys' fees.

6. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26, and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1333(d), 1337(a), and 1367.

7. This Court has diversity jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d) because this is a class action wherein the amount in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $5 million, exclusive of interest and costs, there are more than 100 members in the proposed Classes, Plaintiff's respective principal place of business is located in Florida, and thus the Plaintiff is diverse from at least one of the Defendants. At least some of the Defendants are either residents of, incorporated in, or have their principal places of business in Delaware, Michigan, Minnesota, or Utah.

8. This Court also has personal jurisdiction over all Defendants, and Venue in this District is proper under the combination of 15 U.S.C. § 22 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), (c), and (d). A substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in this District. On information and belief, each Defendant resides, transacts business, is found, or has an agent in this District.

9. Defendants' activities were within the flow of, were intended to, and did have a substantial effect on, interstate commerce of the United States. Defendants' products and services are sold in the flow of interstate commerce.

10. By reason of the unlawful activities alleged herein, Defendants' unlawful activities substantially affected commerce throughout the United States, causing injury to Plaintiff and the geographically dispersed class members. Defendants, directly and through their agents, engaged in activities affecting all states.

11. Defendants' conspiracy, wrongful anticompetitive conduct, and substantial anticompetitive effects described herein proximately caused injury to Plaintiff and members of the proposed Classes.

III. THE PARTIES

Plaintiff

12. Plaintiff, JM Hospitality Group, LLC is a Florida corporation with its principal place of business in Winter Park, Florida. During the Class Period, Plaintiff purchased Granulated Sugar in Florida indirectly from one or more Defendants and suffered antitrust injury as a result.

Defendants

13. Defendant ASR is a privately held Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in West Palm Beach, Florida. It is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar.

14. Defendant ASR Group is a privately held Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in West Palm Beach, Florida. It is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar. On its website, ASR Group states: “As the world’s largest refiner and marketer of cane sugar, we sell our branded products and service our customers in every key channel, including industrial, grocery and e-commerce, food service, and specialty.”² ASR Group further claims: “Our acquisitions and strategic partnerships have positioned us as a key player in the world’s largest sugar markets.”³

15. Defendant Domino is a Florida corporation with its principal place of business in West Palm Beach, Florida. Domino is the marketing and sales subsidiary for ASR and ASR Group’s Granulated Sugar business, and is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar.

16. ASR/Domino owns and operates sugar refineries in Crockett, California, Chalmette, Louisiana, Baltimore, Maryland, and Yonkers, New York. It is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar. ASR/Domino sells Granulated Sugar in the United States under the brands Domino, C&H, and Florida Crystals, as well as internationally under the brands Redpath, Tate & Lyle, Lyle’s, and Sidul.⁴

17. Defendant Cargill is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Wayzata, Minnesota. Cargill is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar. Its website claims that “Cargill is proud to be one of the leading sugar marketers in North America. No matter what your sugar requirements – granulated sugar, refined sugar, liquid sucralose – Cargill has the right product to deliver the taste and texture you demand.”⁵

18. Defendant Michigan Sugar is a Michigan corporation with its principal place of business in Bay City, Michigan. It is a cooperative comprising 900 sugar beet grower-owners, and is a global producer and seller of Granulated Sugar under the brand names Pioneer Sugar and Big Chief Sugar.⁶ Michigan Sugar owns and operates sugar beet processing facilities in Bay City, Caro, Croswell and Sebawaing, Michigan. Michigan Sugar also owns warehouse facilities in Bay City, Michigan, Carrollton, Michigan, Fremont, Ohio, and Findlay, Ohio, as well as a production facility in Toledo, Ohio and an agricultural research center in Bay County, Michigan.⁷

19. Defendant United is a Minnesota corporation with its principal place of business in Edina, Minnesota. United has four member-owners: United States Sugar Corporation (“U.S. Sugar”); American Crystal Sugar Company; Minn-Dak Farmers Cooperative; and Wyoming Sugar Company, LLC.⁸ It sells Granulated Sugar primarily under the brand name Crystal Sugar.⁹ According to its website: “From a sugar-supply continuity standpoint, we are the most reliable sugar producer in the U.S. due to our volume capabilities and coast-to-coast distribution network. Unlike other sugar suppliers, our sales team, customer service team and quality assurance team are solely focused on sugar, no other commodities.”¹⁰

20. Defendant Commodity is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Orem, Utah. Commodity publishes a monthly report called the “Domestic Sugar Monthly Report” that contains information about, among other things, sugar supply and demand and sugar spot pricing guidance. Throughout the Class Period, Defendant Commodity facilitated exchanges of detailed, non-public, competitively sensitive information regarding, among other things, prices (including prospective prices), capacity, sales volume, and demand amongst the Producing Defendants in furtherance of the conspiracy.

21. Defendant Wistisen is a Granulated Sugar industry analyst and the principal of Commodity. In furtherance of Defendants’ combination and conspiracy, Mr. Wistisen knowingly and purposely collected and shared detailed, non-public, competitively sensitive information amongst the Producing Defendants.

IV. AGENTS & CO-CONSPIRATORS

22. Various co-conspirators, some known and some unknown, willingly participated in and acted in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy.

23. Each Defendant was a co-conspirator with the other Defendants and committed overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy alleged herein in the United States and in this District.

24. Defendants participated in the alleged conspiracy through the acts of their officers, directors, agents, partners, employees, representatives, affiliates, subsidiaries, and companies they acquired through mergers and acquisitions, for whom they are liable.

25. At all relevant times, other known and unknown corporations, individuals, and entities willingly conspired with Defendants in their unlawful and illegal conduct. Numerous individuals and entities participated actively during the course of, and in furtherance of, the scheme described herein. The individuals and entities acted in concert through, amongst other things, joint ventures, and by acting as agents for principals in order to advance the objectives of the scheme to benefit Defendants and themselves by artificially inflating Granulated Sugar prices.

26. Whenever reference is made to an act of any organization, corporation, or other business entity, the allegation means that the entity engaged in the act by or through its officers, directors, agents, partners, employees, or representatives while they were actively engaged in the management, direction, control, or transaction of the corporation's business or affairs.

V. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

A. The U.S. Granulated Sugar Market

27. "Granulated Sugar," also known as "white sugar" or "table sugar," is a product made from cane sugar or beet sugar that has undergone a refining process to remove molasses and extract the sucrose ($C_{12}H_{22}O_{11}$), which is then ground into relatively large, uniform crystals typically of about 0.6mm. Although refined sugar/sucralose is sometimes sold as a liquid or powder, Granulated Sugar is the predominant form sold and accounts for approximately 80% of all refined sugar sold.¹¹

28. In the United States, sugarcane is only grown in tropical and semitropical climates such as Florida, Louisiana, and Texas, whereas sugar beets are grown in a range of temperate climates such as California, Colorado, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington, and Wyoming. After harvesting, sugarcane is first converted to "raw" sugar at sugar mills, which is then later refined into Granulated Sugar at refineries. Sugar beets, on the other hand, are typically processed in a single facility where they are converted into refined sugar directly. However, despite these differences, Granulated Sugar made from beets and Granulated Sugar made from sugar cane are chemically indistinguishable.

¹¹ See Proposed Findings of Fact of the United States [Redacted], U.S. v. United States Sugar Corp., et al., No. 21-cv-1644-MN (D. Del.) (ECF 219) ¶ 25.

29. Granulated Sugar is a primary dry good and staple foodstuff commonly used by both commercial/industrial/institutional users (e.g., restaurants, bakeries, confectioneries, and food and beverage manufacturers) and end-consumers as an ingredient to sweeten foods and drinks. It is also used in some industrial processes, such as the production of medications and bioplastics, and to make ethanol and other biofuels. According to one global estimate, approximately 75% of Granulated Sugar is used for food products while 25% is used for biofuels and other industrial applications.¹²

30. While some larger commercial, industrial, and institutional users purchase Granulated Sugar directly from the Producing Defendants either for resale or for manufacturing purposes (i.e., “Direct Purchasers”), many commercial, industrial, and institutional entities purchase Granulated Sugar indirectly through intermediaries such as sugar wholesale distributors, food service distributors, or grocery retailers. These latter types of purchasing entities, which include Plaintiff, are referred to herein as “Commercial Indirect Purchasers.”

31. Granulated Sugar is a commodity product with little or no product differentiation based on processor.¹³ Given its history and cultural importance, it is generally considered one of the most valuable agricultural commodities in the world.¹⁴ Sugar futures contracts are traded on the Intercontinental Exchange (“ICE”) as “White Sugar” under the symbol “W.” According to ICE: “The White Sugar futures contract is used as the global benchmark for the pricing of physical white sugar. It is actively traded by the international sugar trade, sugar millers, refiners, and end-users (manufacturers) as well as by managed funds and both institutional and short-term investors.”¹⁵

32. The U.S. Granulated Sugar industry is projected to reach an estimated $13.5 billion in revenue in 2024.¹⁶

33. During the Class Period, the Producing Defendants, directly or through their subsidiaries or other affiliates, sold Granulated Sugar throughout the United States in a continuous and uninterrupted flow of interstate commerce, including through, in, into, or from this District.

34. During the Class Period, the Producing Defendants collectively controlled a dominant share of the United States Granulated Sugar market. Presently, the Producing Defendants have an estimated combined market share of at least 61%, though likely higher, in the Granulated Sugar market in the United States.¹⁷ For example, upon hearing the announcement regarding Imperial’s acquisition, one Producing Defendant noted “they view this as 1 less competitor and now 3 companies account for 75% of the market.”¹⁸

B. The Sugar Industry’s History of Collusion

35. For more than 80 years, the domestic refined sugar industry has been marked by repeated violations of the antitrust laws, including some conduct remarkably like that alleged by Plaintiff here.

¹⁷ See Defendant United’s Proposed Findings of Fact, U.S. v. United States Sugar Corp., et al., No. 21-cv-1644-MN (D. Del.) (ECF 231) ¶177.

¹⁸ Email from ASR/Domino’s Adam Whittaker dated March 25, 2021, U.S. v. United States Sugar Corp., et al., No. 21-cv-1644-MN (D. Del.) (ECF 207-24).

36. In 1936, the United States Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling which found that the major refined sugar producers unreasonably restrained trade by, among other things, creating the “Sugar Institute,” an industry trade association, which enabled them to promulgate member rules whereby “defendants agreed to sell, and in general did sell sugar only upon open prices, terms and conditions publicly announced in advance of sales, and they agreed to adhere and in general did adhere without deviation, to such prices, terms and conditions until they publicly announced changes.”¹⁹

37. In 1948, sugar producers in California were accused of conspiring with one another to fix the prices they paid to acquire sugar beets from growers.²⁰ After a trial on the merits, the court found in favor of the Plaintiffs, who were awarded treble damages and attorneys’ fees, which was later affirmed by the Ninth Circuit.²¹

38. In 1978, sugar producers—again accused of anticompetitive conduct—entered into a consent decree with the United States Department of Justice (“DOJ”) where they were enjoined from, among other things, entering into any future agreements or combinations to: (a) “[f]ix, raise, maintain or stabilize the prices, terms or conditions for the sale of refined sugar”; (b) “[g]ive any prior notice of or announce in advance any change or contemplated change in prices, terms or conditions for the sale of refined sugar”; (c) “[d]irectly communicating to any other refiner information concerning Future Prices”; or (d) “[r]equesting, requiring or coercing any third person....to communicate to any other refiner, information concerning Future Prices.”²²

39. Notably, DOJ’s and Federal Trade Commission’s (“FTC”) joint “Guidelines for Collaborations Among Competitors”²³ and the “Merger Guidelines”²⁴ referenced therein specifically identify “Prior Actual or Attempted Attempts to Coordinate” as a “Primary Factor” in determining whether practices such as information sharing are likely to increase the risk of coordinated, anticompetitive conduct.

C. The Structure and Characteristics of the Sugar Industry Make It Especially Susceptible to Collusion and Render the Conspiracy Economically Plausible

40. Several characteristics of the Granulated Sugar industry cause it to be especially susceptible to collusion and render the conspiracy economically plausible.

41. First, Granulated Sugar is a standardized, homogenous commodity product whose inputs and outputs are subject to repetitive purchases/sales. As such, it is much easier: (a) for vendors to become familiar with other bidders and for competitors to share the work on future contracts; and (b) for competing firms, such as the Producing Defendants, to reach an agreement on a common price structure because their products are fungible and have common features and qualities.

42. Second, the United States market for Granulated Sugar is highly concentrated. Not only did the Producing Defendants collectively have a dominant share of the market during the Class Period, but none of the remaining Granulated Sugar producers had a market share remotely approaching that of the Producing Defendants. Moreover, the market became even more concentrated once United acquired Imperial in 2022. United and ASR/Domino have related ownership interests: United, through owner-member U.S. Sugar, has an ownership interest in Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative, which is part owner of Domino.

²⁴ https://www.ftc.gov/system/files/ftc_gov/pdf/2023_merger_guidelines_final_12.18.2023.pdf (last accessed May 20, 2024).

43. Third, the Granulated Sugar industry is almost entirely vertically integrated, with the Producing Defendants and other sugar producers owning or tightly controlling almost all aspects of producing sugarcane and sugar beets, processing and refining them into Granulated Sugar, and marketing Granulated Sugar.

44. Fourth, the Producing Defendants benefited from the United States Department of Agriculture's ("USDA") Sugar Program, which—although it did not set, approve, or otherwise regulate actual sales prices for Granulated Sugar—limited the number of sources of raw sugar from which Granulated Sugar could be refined and protected the Producing Defendants from foreign competition by limiting imports. As a result of this program, the Producing Defendants know they can charge higher prices for Granulated Sugar as their sold positions increase because there will be little to no additional competitive product available in the market to constrain them.

45. Fifth, there are high barriers to entry which prevent de novo entry into the Granulated Sugar market as a producer. A new entrant into the market would face costly and lengthy start-up costs, including large capital investments associated with constructing processing plants, refiners, transportation infrastructure, skilled labor, creation of sugarcane/sugar beet farms or contracts with sugarcane/sugar beet farmers, and regulatory approvals. In addition, most existing competitors, like the Producing Defendants, are large, vertically integrated operations that have long-standing customer and supplier relationships and benefit from economies of scale and access to loans and production allotments offered by the USDA only to the larger, vertically integrated producers.

46. Sixth, the Producing Defendants each were members, either directly or through one of their affiliated companies, of various trade associations—e.g., the Sugar Association²⁵ and the American Sugar Alliance²⁶—which afforded them ample opportunities to collude during the Class Period. For example, the American Sugar Alliance holds an annual symposium sponsored and attended by the Producing Defendants where attendees participate in industry discussions as well as informal activities such as golf outings. Several employees and board members of the Producing Defendants sit on the board of directors to the Sugar Association, including ASR’s Pepe Fanjul, Jr. (board member), Peter O’Malley (Vice President of Corporate Relations), Rob Sproull (Senior Vice President of Sales Marketing and Product Development)²⁷, and Michigan Sugar’s Neil Juhnke (CEO).²⁸

47. Seventh, the crossover of employees among the Defendants provided additional opportunities to collude or exchange competitively sensitive information. For example, ASR/Domino’s director of national accounts, Adam Whittaker,²⁹ ASR/Domino’s national accounts manager, Brian Dahlman,³⁰ and United’s director of strategic accounts, Eric Speece³¹ were each former employees of Defendant Cargill. Mr. Whittaker, worked at Cargill for more than a decade before joining ASR/Domino, while Mr. Speece worked at Cargill for about nine years prior to joining United. Mr. Whittaker’s and Mr. Speece’s employment at Cargill overlapped for a five-year period. Mr. Whittaker, Mr. Speece, and Mr. Dahlman were all involved in the exchange of competitively sensitive information as described in the email exchanges detailed herein.

²⁶ <https://sugaralliance.org/asa-symposium-2023/asa-program> (last accessed May 206, 2024).

D. Defendants Enter into Another Agreement, Combination, or Conspiracy to Artificially Raise, Fix, Maintain, or Stabilize Granulated Sugar Prices

48. Since at least 2019, the Producing Defendants have had an ongoing agreement to artificially raise, fix, stabilize, or maintain Granulated Sugar prices in the United States. To effectuate this agreement, the Producing Defendants engaged in signaled pricing decisions to one another and otherwise exchange detailed, accurate, non-public, competitively sensitive information (including forward-looking price information) with one another, both directly and through Defendants Commodity and Wistisen.

49. As revealed by DOJ, Defendants have participated in these exchanges of competitively sensitive information for years.³² There is no innocent, economically rational reason for the Producing Defendants to share this competitively sensitive information. Rather, they have exchanged this competitively sensitive information for the explicit purpose of carrying out their unlawful agreement and to avoid competition on the merits.

50. Defendant Commodity purports to offer analysis of the sugar industry, yet it has no public presence—it does not advertise its services to the public, nor does it even have a website—and does not appear to market its “Domestic Sugar Monthly Report” or other analyses to anyone but a select few (i.e., the Producing Defendants or other refiners who share their competitively sensitive information). The reports are not made available to purchasers of Granulated Sugar and others in the sugar supply chain, thereby giving the Producing Defendants

51. The information Commodity gathers includes the Producing Defendants' current pricing, future or forward pricing, pricing strategies, crop size/yields, sold positions, spot prices, and contract prices. This information is not obtained through anonymous surveys or polling, and the information Commodity shares with the Producing Defendants is not aggregated. Instead, the Producing Defendants each regularly share competitively sensitive information regarding pricing and sold positions with Commodity, who then immediately shares that non-aggregated, non-anonymized competitively sensitive information with the other Producing Defendants. These reciprocal exchanges occurred rapidly, oftentimes within hours of receipt, and that information was used by the Producing Defendants in deciding how much to charge for their Granulated Sugar.

52. Moreover, the Producing Defendants themselves understand that the sharing of this competitively sensitive information is anticompetitive and violates the spirit and purpose of the antitrust laws. As discussed below, the Producing Defendants' codes of ethics/business conduct explicitly acknowledge that agreements to fix prices are unlawful and that information regarding prices and sales should not be shared, directly or indirectly, with competitors. But that is precisely what the Producing Defendants have done.³³

53. Afterwards, pursuant to their unlawful agreement, the Producing Defendants used this competitively sensitive information that they exchanged with one another through

Commodity when deciding how much to charge their customers for Granulated Sugar during the Class Period.

54. Moreover, Defendants understood that by sharing this competitively sensitive information with one another, they could hinder their customers' ability to negotiate with them on price. For example, in a deposition taken on April 18, 2022, United's Executive VP of Sales, Dirk Swart, testified that customers use alternative suppliers' prices to leverage down prices from United, but then acknowledged that he "could better avoid these destructive situations" when he "had better information about what [his] competitor's actual prices were."

55. The purpose and goal of these information exchanges is clear: to avoid competing with one another by ensuring they did not undercut each other's prices, thus maintaining Granulated Sugar prices that are higher than they otherwise would be in a competitive market. As the dominant producers in the sugar industry, the Producing Defendants are not competitively restrained by smaller market participants as the Producing Defendants collectively account for the majority of Granulated Sugar production and sales in the United States.

56. During the time period from 2019 to 2021, when Defendants exchanged competitively sensitive information, the price of Granulated Sugar increased 4.65 percent from 2019 to 2020, and 5.32 percent from 2020 to 2021.³⁴

57. Each of the Producing Defendants—ASR/Domino, Cargill, Michigan Sugar, and United—participated in these exchanges of competitively sensitive information. For example:

- (a) Cargill: March 3, 2020 – ASR/Domino's Alan Henderson emails colleague Mr. Sproull to report on his attendance at the International Sweetener Colloquium; his report discusses Cargill's prospective "Competitive Numbers" for Fiscal Year 2021 and reveals that Cargill's future pricing will be at "$37.50 gross FOB" as well as other Cargill-specific supply information obtained at the Colloquium. In another email from August 18, 2020, Mr. Henderson again emails Mr. Sproull, stating: “Ok, hearing reports that Cargill is moving close 80% sold for FY21. We are trying to find out if this correlates to an increase in their pricing.” On September 22, 2020, Mr. Wistisen reports to Mr. Henderson that “Cargill is well sold for FY21 but not calendar year 21.” Similarly, internal ASR/Domino emails from August 2020 reveal that they were informed that “Cargill is well sold thru 21, current # is $37 net/$37.75 gross,” and Cargill was included on a report of “Updated pricing” which showed “Cargill @ $37 – 38.” In those same emails, ASR/Domino’s Mr. Whittaker states it is “suspicious” that “Cargill [is] moving up to $37.75.”

- (b) Michigan Sugar: August 18, 2020 – Mr. Wistisen emails ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson stating: “My goodness, what a difference a month makes. Michigan 85+% booked, Western 75-%.” In another email on September 21, 2020, Mr. Wistisen reached out to United’s Mr. Speece asking: “Anything new of interest on the pricing front? Hearing beets well sold, except possible NSM (80-85%), and prices firm to higher. Michigan $38.5+....” On June 17, 2021, Mr. Wistisen emailed ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson reporting crop size/yield information, including that “Michigan: above average crop, 50% excellent development...drop up 1.50 tpa above average.” And in yet another email on August 17, 2020, Mr. Wistisen shared Michigan’s crop yield information with ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson, stating “Just getting started on crop updates. Michigan: bumped from 29 tpa to 29-30 tpa.”³⁵
- (c) United: September 21, 2020 – Mr. Wistisen emailed United’s Mr. Speece and ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson within six minutes of each other, asking them about their current prices and if they will be “firm to higher.” Within a day, both competitors had reported their prices and sold positions, and Mr. Wistisen communicated each respective competitor’s report to the other.
- (d) ASR/Domino: November 16, 2020 – Mr. Wistisen contacted United’s Mr. Speece and asked, “Where would you put spot and forward beet prices?”; approximately 38 minutes later, Mr. Wistisen asked Domino’s Alan Henderson, “Where would you put prices and cane coverage?” Both Mr. Speece and Mr. Henderson responded that same day with pricing information.

³⁵ On other occasions, Mr. Wistisen told both United and ASR/Domino that the information he provided on Michigan Sugar came directly from them. For example, when discussing pricing with Domino’s Mr. Henderson, he stated he did not yet have Michigan Sugar’s pricing, but assured him, “I hope to talk with them [Michigan Sugar] on Fri./Mon.”

58. The information exchanges between the Producing Defendants and Commodity were specifically coordinated such that the Producing Defendants would timely receive each other's information. For example:

- (a) November 17, 2020 – The day after the November 16, 2020 emails referenced above (where Mr. Wistisen contacted ASR/Domino and United requesting and later receiving pricing information), Mr. Wistisen emailed United's Mr. Speece and relayed the specific pricing information that Domino's Mr. Henderson shared with him the day prior: "ASR saying prices keep climbing: $46 spot all locations....Waiting to hear back from most contacts...." Mr. Wistisen also emailed Mr. Henderson that same day and forwarded the pricing information shared by Mr. Speece.
- (b) September 21, 2020 – Mr. Wistisen emailed United's Mr. Speece and ASR's Mr. Henderson within six minutes of each other, asking them about their current prices and if they will be "firm to higher." Within a day, both competitors had reported their prices and sold positions, and Mr. Wistisen communicated each respective competitor's report to the other. He also stated: "Waiting to confirm from Michigan [Sugar]."

59. The pricing information exchanged included current prices as well as prospective prices and sold positions. For example:

- (a) March 3, 2020 – After attending the International Sweetener Colloquium the week before in Palm Springs, California, ASR/Domino's Mr. Henderson reported back his colleagues, among other things, their competitors pricing plans for Fiscal Year 2021: "Michigan firm at $38.50 for 2021. United took prices up to $36.50 FOB."
- (b) August 18, 2020 – In an email between Mr. Wistisen and ASR/Domino's Mr. Henderson, it is reported that there is "some talk of Cargill moving prices up to $37.70 gross fob."
- (c) September 21, 2020 – Mr. Wistisen reported to ASR/Domino's Mr. Henderson: "Michigan [Sugar] holding forecasts unchanged, sugars nearing 16%, factories running well, stockpiling on Oct. 19th," later also adding that Michigan Sugar's pricing was at "$38.5+, selective selling."
- (d) February 17, 2021 – Mr. Wistisen exchanged emails with ASR/Domino's Mr. Henderson about United's prospective pricing strategy, and Mr. Wistisen responded: "Long conversation with United: won't set FY22 price list until March, but the plan remains to hold steady at $36.50 and $38.50 based on demand...Selling FY21 firm, good activity, little to no competition from NSM or Western."

- (e) February 15, 2021 – ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson emailed Mr. Wistisen and reported: “We [Domino] are still at $36.50 and $38.50 with zero problems selling at those values. I do not anticipate any changes to our prices....”
- (f) May 18, 2021 – Mr. Wistisen informed ASR/Domino’s Mr. Henderson: “Just talked with United: prices unchanged...[b]ut expect big action over the next month, 20+% add to bookings, and at that time expect to raise prices, and not by just a dollar.”
- (g) July 12, 2021 – Domino’s Mr. Henderson wrote his colleagues Mr. Whittaker and Mr. Dahlman again forwarding United’s pricing information, stating: “FYI below...United price increase. Rich [Wistisen] is thinking $2.00 increase but no official word yet. Let’s see if we can hunt something down.”

60. The competitively sensitive information exchanged through Commodity was accurate so that the Producing Defendants could rely upon it. For example, on February 17, 2021, Domino’s Mr. Henderson wrote to his colleague Mr. Whittaker, forwarding information about competitor United received by Mr. Wistisen, noting, “United is usually pretty upfront with Rich.”

61. It is also clear that these communications were expressly and intentionally used for price signaling purposes. For example:

- (a) September 2019 – United’s CEO stated that “we tried to push prices higher” by putting “an expiration date” on pending offers, which he further explained “sen[t] a message” to “competitors that we were not interested in allowing the market to slip lower.” Similar documents unveiled by DOJ further reveal a Domino executive stating, “[w]e need to signal to the market that we’re going to maintain price,” one executive stating that the “main downside” to lowering an Imperial bid “would be snatching something from United just as they are starting to show some upside price movement.”
- (a) January 8, 2020 – ASR’s Mr. Sproull emailed his colleague Mr. Henderson stating: “I think it’s really important we signal to the market that there’s still going to be tightness...We need to signal to the market that we’re going to maintain price, especially for the Oct-Dec quarter.”
- (b) June 18, 2020 – ASR Group’s Mr. Henderson emailed his colleague, Mr. Whittaker regarding a quote needed for major customer Piedmont Candy

Corporation, where he stated he “would love to get aggressive here [on pricing]” but that “[w]e would like to avoid sending a signal out to competitors that we are chasing business and lowering price off the standard $41.00 bulk basis.”

- (c) November 16, 2020 – United’s Dirk Swart emailed his colleague Mr. Speece, stating: “I’d like him [Wistisen] to hear $36.50/$38.00 and probably moving higher based on the strength of the position.”
- (d) January 20, 2021 – United’s Mr. Speece emailed his colleague at United, Mr. Swart, that one competitor was selling at too low a price and suggested, “May want to communicate pricing earlier than the colloquium to send a msg. I’ll plan on calling him tomorrow as it is always easier than black and white. Let me know if there are any key messages you would like me to relay on.”

62. The Producing Defendants were careful to avoid detection of their unlawful agreement. For example, in one email United’s Mr. Speece states while discussing an information exchange: “I will call him rather than put in writing.”

E. Defendants’ Agreement Successfully Inflated Sugar Prices During the Class Period

63. During the Class Period, Granulated Sugar prices rose by more than 50 percent in a manner that did not reflect prior pricing patterns despite the fact that supply did not decline. In particular, prices rose year over year between 2019 and 2021 where there is evidence that Defendants exchanged pricing information as discussed above.

64. In a competitive market, increasing prices should result in customer churn, loss of sales volume, and loss of profits. Contrary to these basic economic principles, Defendants have consistently raised prices for Granulated Sugar during the Class Period, suggesting no negative impact on their businesses. Such circumstances confirm both that Defendants engaged in price fixing and that they were successful in doing so.

65. The following is a chart of the producer price index for the Sugar Manufacturing sector during the Class Period and the five years preceding it:

66. Commodity prices for Granulated Sugar have also increased dramatically during the Class Period. The following is a chart showing commodity sugar prices in USD/lb for the last five years:

67. As these charts demonstrate, Granulated Sugar prices increased at a faster rate shortly after the alleged conspiracy began in or around January 2019.

VI. ANTITRUST INJURY & DAMAGES

68. Defendants' anticompetitive conduct had the following effects, among others:

- (a) competition has been restrained or eliminated with respect to Granulated Sugar;
- (b) the prices paid for Granulated Sugar have been fixed, raised, stabilized, or maintained at artificially inflated levels;
- (c) indirect purchasers of Granulated Sugar, including Plaintiff and the Classes, have been deprived of free and open competition; and
- (d) indirect purchasers of Granulated Sugar, including Plaintiff and the Classes paid artificially inflated prices.

69. The purpose and effect of Defendants' anticompetitive course of conduct was to stifle competition and to raise, fix, or maintain the price of Granulated Sugar. As a direct and foreseeable result, during the Class Period, Plaintiff and members of the Classes paid supracompetitive prices for Granulated Sugar.

70. These overcharges are exactly the type of injuries the antitrust laws were intended to prevent.

71. By reason of the antitrust and consumer protection violations alleged herein, Plaintiff and members of the Classes have sustained injury to their business or property, and as a result suffered damages.

72. The Granulated Sugar that Plaintiff and members of the Classes purchased was in substantially the same form at the time of purchase as when it was initially sold by the Producing Defendants. As such, Granulated Sugar and the associated overcharges resulting from Defendants' anticompetitive conduct follow a physical chain from the Producing Defendants to Plaintiff and members of the Classes that can be traced.

73. Generally accepted economic principles dictate that an overcharge at the top of a multi-level distribution chain will result in higher prices at every level of distribution below.

74. Here, while direct purchasers of Granulated Sugar were the first to pay supracompetitive prices, some or all the overcharges were passed along the distribution chain and absorbed by downstream purchasers, including Plaintiff and members of the Classes, when they purchased Granulated Sugar from distributors, wholesalers, or retailers for commercial use.

75. Commonly used and well-accepted economic models can be used to measure both the extent and the amount of the overcharge passed through the various levels of distribution. As a result, the economic harm to Plaintiff and members of the Classes can be readily quantified.

VII. CLASS ALLEGATIONS

76. Plaintiff brings this lawsuit under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a), (b)(1) and (b)(2) on behalf of itself and as a representative of a Class of Commercial Indirect

Purchasers seeking injunctive relief (the “Nationwide Injunctive Relief Commercial Indirect Class”) defined as follows:

All persons or entities who indirectly purchased Granulated Sugar from the Producing Defendants or their co-conspirators in the United States, beginning January 1, 2019 to the present for their own use in commercial food preparation and not for resale.

77. In addition, Plaintiff brings this lawsuit under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and (b)(3) on behalf of itself and all others similarly situated seeking damages as well as equitable relief, on behalf of the following Class (the “Commercial State Law Class”):

All persons or entities who indirectly purchased Granulated Sugar from the Producing Defendants or their co-conspirators in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, and/or Wisconsin beginning January 1, 2019 to the present for their own use in commercial food preparation and not for resale.

78. Specifically excluded from both the Nationwide Injunctive Relief Commercial Indirect Class and the Commercial State Law Class (collectively, the “Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes”) are: Defendants; any of their officers, directors, or employees; any entity in which any Defendant has a controlling interest; any affiliate, legal representative, heir, or assignee of any Defendant; any federal, state, or local governmental entities; any judicial officer presiding over this action and the members of his or her immediate family and judicial staff; any juror assigned to this action; and any co-conspirator identified in this action.

79. Plaintiff reserves the right to modify these definitions and/or to propose subclasses, as appropriate, based on further investigation and discovery.

80. Numerosity. The members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes are so numerous that joinder of all members would be impracticable. The exact number of members in the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes is unknown to Plaintiff at this time, but it is estimated to be in the millions. The members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes should be readily identifiable from existing records.

81. Typicality. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes because they were all similarly affected by Defendants' unlawful conduct in that they paid artificially inflated prices for Granulated Sugar purchased indirectly from one or more of the Producing Defendants or their producer co-conspirators, and therefore Plaintiff's claims arise from the same common course of conduct giving rise to the claims of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes.

82. Adequacy. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately represent the interests of the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes. Plaintiff's interests are coincident with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other class members. Plaintiff is represented by attorneys experienced in the prosecution of class action litigation generally, and in antitrust litigation specifically, who will vigorously prosecute this action on behalf of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes.

83. Common Questions of Law and Fact Predominate. Questions of law and fact common to the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes predominate over questions that may affect only individual class members because Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to all class members. Common issues of fact and law include, but are not limited to, the following:

- (a) whether Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in a combination or conspiracy to fix, raise, maintain, or stabilize the price of Granulated Sugar in the United States;
- (b) the duration of the conspiracy alleged herein and the acts performed by Defendants and their co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy;

- (c) whether such combination or conspiracy violated the antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection laws of various states;
- (d) whether the conduct of Defendants and their co-conspirators, as alleged herein, caused injury to Plaintiff and other members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes;
- (e) whether Defendants caused Plaintiff and the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes to suffer damages in the form of overcharges on Granulated Sugar indirectly purchased from the Producing Defendants or their producing co-conspirators;
- (f) the effect of Defendants' conspiracy on Granulated Sugar prices sold in the United States during the Class Period;
- (g) the appropriate measure of class-wide damages for the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes; and
- (h) the nature of appropriate injunctive relief to restore competition in the U.S. market for Granulated Sugar.

84. Superiority. A class action will permit numerous similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without unnecessary duplication of evidence, effort, or expense. A class action will provide injured persons a method for obtaining redress on claims that could not practicably be pursued individually. Moreover, the prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes would create a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, potentially establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants. Plaintiff knows of no manageability or other issue that would preclude maintenance of this case as a class action.

85. Injunctive relief. Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes, making injunctive and corresponding declaratory relief appropriate with respect to these Classes as a whole pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, Rule 23(b)(2).

VIII. EQUITABLE TOLLING & FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

86. Any applicable statute of limitations for Plaintiff's and the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes' claims as alleged in this Complaint were tolled by equitable estoppel due to Defendants' concealment of their unlawful combination and conspiracy.

87. Plaintiff and the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes did not have actual or constructive notice of the conspiracy alleged herein until, at the earliest, DOJ's Findings of Fact in support of its petition to stop the merger of United and Imperial were made public. In particular, the full scope of Defendants' unlawful conduct could not have been discovered until the appellate exhibits from that matter were made available to the public.

88. Throughout the Class Period and continuing until today, the Defendants affirmatively and fraudulently concealed their unlawful conspiracy from Plaintiff and the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes. That conspiracy was also inherently self-concealing.

89. Plaintiff and the members of the Commercial Indirect Purchaser Classes all reasonably relied on Defendants' promises to conduct business ethically and in accordance with the law, which prevented them from discovering Defendants' unlawful conduct earlier.

90. ASR Group's Code of Ethics and Business Conduct from January 22, 2020³⁶ states: "Throughout our long history, ASR Group has always been dedicated to conducting business in a lawful and ethical manner in all of its operations... We seek success in all of our business endeavors. However, we may only do so while upholding the highest standards of ethical conduct and all of the laws, domestic and foreign, that apply to our work." In addition, it contains a section devoted to “Following Antitrust and Competition Laws,” which, among other things, prohibits ASR Group and its employees, officers, and directors from entering into “[p]rohibited agreements and activities,” including “[a]greements with competitors to fix or control prices” and, “[t]o ensure that [they] avoid these illegal agreements, [they] may not engaged in direct or indirect discussions or other contacts with competitors regarding . . . [p]rices to be charged by ASR Group or others or regarding other terms and conditions of sales.”

91. Cargill’s Code of Conduct states: “We obey the law. Obeying the law is the foundation on which our reputation and Guiding Principles are built. As a global organization privileged to do business all over the world, we have the responsibility to comply with all of the laws that apply to our business.”³⁷ With respect to antitrust compliance in particular, Cargill states: “Conducting business in compliance with these [antitrust] laws has contributed to Cargill’s growth and prosperity throughout the years. While these laws are complex and can vary country to country, they generally prohibit competitors from working together to limit competition.”³⁸ It continues: “All employees are expected to follow competition laws, as well as Cargill’s own competition policy. Employees must also be careful when interacting with competitors—for instance, in connection with trade associations and benchmarking. Another way of preserving fair and honest competition involves the proper collection and use of competitive intelligence. Gathering competitive information and business data is an appropriate business practice, but it must be done legally and ethically.”³⁹ In its chart of “Competition Do’s and Don’ts,” Cargill explicitly instructs its employees “Don’t: Discuss prices, sales plans or volumes

92. Michigan Sugar’s “Sustainability & Corporate Social Responsibility” webpage⁴¹ states: “At Michigan Sugar Company, we live by our values – Excellence, Pride, Integrity, Compassion and Trust. This is the foundation of a business environment that sets respect and dignity for co-workers, suppliers, customers, and partners as an absolute expectation.” It further states: “[W]e are committed to creating a responsible business model that serves and builds value for our grower-owners, employees, customers, suppliers, and other stakeholders now and in the future.”⁴²

93. United’s Code of Business Conduct and Ethics, updated March 16, 2020,⁴³ states: “Obeying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation on which our ethical standards are built. All our employees, officers, directors, agents and other representatives must respect and obey the laws of the cities, states and countries in which we operate.” It further states: “Our employees, officers, directors, agents and other representative must maintain the confidentiality of confidential information entrusted to them by us or our customers, except when disclosure is authorized in writing by a supervisor or required by laws or regulations. Confidential information includes, without limitation, any information that derives independent value because it is not known by third parties, including United Sugar’s competitors or the general public, whether or not expressly identified as confidential.”

IX. CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

A. Violation of The Sherman Act

VIOLATION OF 15 U.S.C. § 1

(On Behalf of the Nationwide Injunctive Relief Commercial Indirect Class)

94. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporate by reference all the allegations above as if fully set forth herein.

95. From at least January 1, 2019, and continuing through the present, the exact dates being unknown to Plaintiff, Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into a continuing agreement, understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade artificially to fix, raise, and stabilize price for Granulated Sugar in the United States, including by restraining their respective production volumes, in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1).

96. In formulating and carrying out the alleged agreement, understanding, and conspiracy, Defendants and their co-conspirators did those things that they combined and conspired to do, including but not limited to the acts, practices, and course of conduct set forth above, and the fixing, raising, and stabilizing of the price of Granulated Sugar.

97. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had the following effects, among others:

- (a) Price competition in the sale of Granulated Sugar has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the United States;
- (b) Prices for Granulated Sugar sold, directly and indirectly, by Defendants and all their co-conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained and stabilized at artificially high, noncompetitive levels throughout the United States; and
- (c) Those who purchased Granulated Sugar indirectly from Defendants and their co-conspirators have been deprived of the benefits of free and open competition, resulting in artificially high prices paid for Granulated Sugar.

98. Plaintiff and members of the Nationwide Injunctive Relief Commercial Indirect Class have been injured and will continue to be injured in their businesses and property by paying more for Granulated Sugar purchased indirectly from the Defendants and their co-conspirators than they would have paid and will pay in the absence of the combination and conspiracy.

B. Violations of State Antitrust, Unfair Competition, and Consumer Protection Laws

100. Plaintiff re-allege and incorporate by reference all the allegations above as if fully set forth herein.

101. During the Class Period, Defendants and their co-conspirators entered and engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy to fix, stabilize, or maintain prices of Granulated Sugar sold in various states. And to unreasonably restrain trade and commerce and harm purchasers in violation of the various state antitrust and consumer protection laws set forth below.

102. In formulating and effectuating this conspiracy, Defendants and their co-conspirators performed acts in furtherance of the combination and conspiracy, including: agreeing to fix, maintain, or stabilize Granulated Sugar prices, which injured Plaintiff and members of the Commercial State Law Class; exchanging competitively sensitive information between and among Defendants; and participating in meetings and conversations among themselves in the United States and elsewhere to implement, adhere to, and police the unlawful agreements they reached.

103. Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in actions described above for the purpose of carrying out their unlawful agreements to fix, increase, maintain, or stabilize Granulated Sugar prices at artificially high levels. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' conduct, Plaintiff and members of the Commercial State Law Class were deprived of free and open competition and paid more to purchase Granulated Sugar than they otherwise would have in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct. This injury is of the type that the antitrust and consumer protection laws of the below states were designed to prevent and flows from that which makes Defendants' conduct unlawful.

104. In addition, Defendants have profited significantly from the conspiracy. Defendants' profits derived from their anticompetitive conduct and come at the expense of and to the detriment of Plaintiff and members of the Commercial State Law Class.

105. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the members of the Commercial State Law Class in each of the following jurisdictions seek damages (including statutory damages where applicable), to be trebled or otherwise increased as permitted by each particular jurisdiction's law, injunction (where applicable), and costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, to the extent permitted by the following state laws.

106. Defendants' anticompetitive acts described above were knowing and willful and constitute violations of the following state antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection statutes.

107. In the Counts that follow, a reference to the "Class" is a reference to the Commercial State Law Class unless otherwise specified.

COUNT 2: ALABAMA
(On Behalf of Commercial State Law Class Members That Purchased Granulated Sugar in Alabama)

108. Upon information and belief, Defendant Domino sold Granulated Sugar directly in Alabama. Due to Defendants' unlawful conduct, described above, (1) competition for Granulated Sugar was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated within Alabama; (2) Granulated Sugar prices in the State of Alabama were raised, fixed, maintained, stabilized at artificially high levels; and (3) purchasers in Alabama have been deprived of free and open competition in the market for Granulated Sugar. As a result, members of the Class who purchased Granulated Sugar, manufactured by Producing Defendants, in the State of Alabama paid supracompetitive prices for their Granulated Sugar. Defendants' agreement was an unlawful agreement to restrain trade in the State of Alabama in violation of ALA. CODE § 6-5-60 et seq. During the Class Period, Defendants' conspiracy and illegal conduct substantially affected Alabama commerce and accordingly, Plaintiff and the members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under ALA. CODE § 6-5-60 et seq.

COUNTS 3 & 4: ARIZONA
(On Behalf of Commercial State Law Class Members That Purchased Granulated Sugar in Arizona)

109. Defendants' conspiracies had the following effects: (1) price competition for Granulated Sugar was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Arizona; (2) prices of Granulated Sugar in the State of Arizona were raised, fixed, maintained, stabilized at artificially high levels; and (3) purchasers in Arizona have been deprived of free and open competition. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Arizona commerce. As a result, members of the Class who purchased Granulated Sugar manufactured by Producing Defendants in the State of Arizona paid supracompetitive prices for their Granulated Sugar.

110. Defendants' agreement was an unlawful agreement to restrain trade in the State of Arizona in violation of ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1401 et seq. Accordingly, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1401 et seq.

111. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of ARIZ. REV. STAT. ANN. § 44-1521 et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

COUNTS 5 & 6: CALIFORNIA
(On Behalf of Commercial State Law Class Members That Purchased Granulated Sugar in California)

112. Defendants' conspiracies had the following effects: (1) price competition for Granulated Sugar was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout the State of California; (2) Granulated Sugar prices in the State of California were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels; and (3) purchasers in California have been deprived of free and open competition. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected California's commerce and consumers. As a result, members of the Class who purchased Granulated Sugar in the State of California which was manufactured by Producing Defendants paid supracompetitive prices for their Granulated Sugar.

113. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16700 et seq. During the Class Period, Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into and engaged in a continuing unlawful trust in restraint of trade and commerce. Each Defendant has acted in violation of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16720 to fix, stabilize, and maintain prices of Granulated Sugar. The violations of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16720 consisted, without limitation, of a continuing unlawful trust and concert of action among Defendants and their co-conspirators, the substantial terms of which were to fix, maintain, and stabilize the price of Granulated Sugar. For the purpose of forming and effectuating the unlawful trust, Defendants and their co-conspirators have done those things which they combined and conspired to do, including, but not limited to, the acts, practices, and course of conduct set forth above, and fixing, raising, and stabilizing the price of Granulated Sugar. As a result of Defendants' violation of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16720, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek treble damages and their cost of suit, including a reasonable attorneys' fee, pursuant to CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16750(a).

114. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200 et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

COUNTS 7 & 8: COLORADO
(On behalf of Commercial State Law Class Members That Purchased Granulated Sugar in Colorado)

115. Defendants' conspiracies had the following effects: (1) price competition for Granulated Sugar was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Colorado; (2) Granulated Sugar prices in the State of Colorado were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels; and (3) purchasers in Colorado have been deprived of free and open competition in the market for Granulated Sugar. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Colorado commerce and consumers. As a result, members of the Class who purchased Granulated Sugar in the State of Colorado which was manufactured by Producing Defendants paid supracompetitive prices for their Granulated Sugar.

116. Defendants have violated Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-4-101 et seq. Accordingly, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under violated Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-4-101, et seq.

117. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-1-101 et seq. and, accordingly, Plaintiff and members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

COUNT 9: CONNECTICUT
(On behalf of Commercial State Law Class Members That Purchased Granulated Sugar in Connecticut)

118. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of Conn. Gen. Stat. § 35-24 et seq. Defendants' combinations or conspiracies had the following effects: (1) price competition for Granulated Sugar was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout the State of Connecticut; and (2) Granulated Sugar prices in the State of Connecticut were fixed, controlled, and maintained at artificially high levels; and (3) purchasers in Connecticut have been deprived of free and open competition for Granulated Sugar in the State of Connecticut. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Connecticut commerce. As a result, members of the Class who purchased Granulated Sugar in the State of Connecticut manufactured by Producing Defendants, paid supracompetitive prices for their Granulated Sugar.
